At last, Alison DiLaurentis's murderer has been apprehended and Rosewood is braced for the trial of the century. But even with Ali's partially decomposed body discovered and her alleged killer, Toby Cavanaugh safely behind bars, pretty little liars Spencer, Hanna, Emily and Aria aren't happy. Nor do they feel particularly safe. For one thing, the girls think Toby has been framed. Complicating matters, the mysterious "A," who has been haunting them since Ali's disappearance, continues to pester the girls with cruelly taunting texts. The girls believe they have discovered the identity of the real killer and will be able to clear Toby when they happen upon Ali's diary. But before the sleuths can make it to the authorities, the diary disappears. And that's just the start of all their trouble – one of the girls is attacked and all are implicated in a fiendish blackmail scheme. Public humiliation and physical danger follow the girls everywhere. At one point, they're locked in a house and showered with poison gas. The girls still don't know A's identity, or who killed Ali, but one thing is for certain: Someone is determined to keep them from finding the truth at all costs.
