Habitat is a place to live that provides the basic essentials of any living creature's life: food, water, and shelter. With a minimal effort, each of these elements can easily be provided in your own backyard. Creating a Bird-Friendly Backyard Habitat covers each of the essentials in turn, providing a balanced picture of the feeders, waterers, and plantings that can attract and hold a variety of birds. It is an excellent introduction to working with Mother Nature to increase the numbers and varieties of birds in any yard throughout the year.
